"When Knights Were Bold." Francis Wilson is this season presenting a play by Charles Marlow entitled "When Knights Were, Bold," that is entirely out of the ordinary run of modern stage productions. It is a satire upon the boasting descendant of historic characters whose sole and only virtue is that he is the offspring of a family tree that was once great. As Sir Guy de Vere, the skylarking chap, who takes almost nothing seriously, Francis Wilson has a part which fits To celebrate the organization of the him well. Chambers, president of the society, introduced the speaker. Keller Memorial Bible Class. The monthly meeting of the Men's Bible Class Association, Keller Memorial Lutheran Church, Maryland avenue and 9th street northeast, was held last evening. After the business meeting the social committee took charge. The Rebew Orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

George P. Tucker sang a solo. Mr. Speldel gave several humorous selections. Dr. Kebler of the bureau of chemistry gave an address on "Ethics in Business" relative to the pure food and drug law, exhibiting specimens, etc., that held the close attention of the large audience present. Refreshments were served.
